Judge F. W. Sims

A severe shock was occasioned all over the State, especially was it severe in the judiciary and legal societies when the news of the tragic death at his own hand of Judge Sims became known. In his room at Jefferson Hotel, Richmond, Sunday morning without hearing of church bells and chimes the sound of the fatal gun shot that ended his life and suffering was heard by people on the street.

Ill health had dethroned the reason of a good man, who had reached the highest honor his State could bestow, that of President of Virginia Court of Appeals. His rash act has brought sorrow and regret and yet those near him and who knew his suffering do not censure him. Who can say that a blameless life such as he led is not a distinct loss to the State when ended.

Good Platform Timber

Winchester, Va., Feb. 5—Announcing that he favors the local collection of automobile licenses and the elimination of unnecessary red-tape in connection with this and any other state activity, Senator H. F. Byrd, candidate for Governor, has written the following letter:

"Mr. James H. Fleicher,
"Sperryville (Rappahannock Co.) Va.

"My dear Mr. Fletcher:

"You request me to state my position on the question of the local collection of automobile li-

STATE CAPITAL

Strong Working Body Organized. Richmond.—

Virginians, 200 strong, opened drive in Washington in an intensive campaign to secure congressional support for the establishment of the proposed national park in the Blue Ridge Mountains.

Representatives of chambers of commerce and similar civic organizations from all over the State of Virginia were in conference to line up a plan of definite action working toward the passage of the tople bill to create the reservation in Virginia, before the close of the present session of Congress.

The visitors met in a busy day's meeting with Senators Swanson and Glass and the Virginia Representatives in Congress at a conference in the Senate caucus room in the morning, calling at the White House, where they were received by President Coolidge at noon, and holding a meeting in the Department of the Interior auditorium in the afternoon, where they were greeted by Secretary of Interior Work, who assured the callers of his active interest and determination to push the Virginia project.

Interstate Rate Case.

The Interstate Commerce Commission will have a representative in Richmond on March 9 to begin the hearing of the petition of the State Corporation Commission that interstate rates from Virginia points to North Carolina points are excessive, unreasonable and unjustly discriminatory compared with rates between points inside the State of North Carolina.

Mason Manghum, of the State Corporation Commission, will be assisted by H. J. Wagner, head of the Norfolk-Portsmouth freight traffic commission, which is one of the bodies backing the State Corporation Commission in its complaint.

Supports Park Site.

The first results of the campaign which the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce is waging throughout the East and North for the establishment of the recommended Shenandoah National Park in Virginia, were reported when officials of the State chamber received copies of resolutions pledging the movement support from the New London, Conn., Chamber of Commerce.

New Legion Newspaper.

The Virginia Legionaire, new monthly publication of the American Legion and Auxiliary, Virginia Department, is now off the press.

Ten thousand copies of the first number, bearing date of January, were printed and will be distributed to legionnaires and members of the auxiliary throughout Virginia.

Must File Returns By March 15.

Collector of Internal Revenue John C. Noel is sounding a warning for income tax payers. No extensions of time will be granted, he says. Returns must be filed by March 15 or the penalty prescribed by law will be attached to the tax bill.

Postoffice Receipts Are High.

Receipts of the Richmond postoffice for the first fifteen days in January amounted to approximately $160,000, Postmaster Stewart announced, saying he expected the total for the month to be the heaviest in the history of the office for a single month. The December total was $202,000.

Capitol Walls Being Scraped.

For the first time in the history of Virginia's state Capitol building, the walls and ceilings on the first floor are being washed, preparatory to receiving a fresh coat of paint. Heretofore the paint has been applied over the accumulated dirt on the walls and ceilings, but it was thought best this time to clean the walls before applying the paint.

Believes Shippers Have Basis For Suit.

Commissioner of Fisheries McDonald Lee is quoted as having expressed his belief that oyster shippers have sound basis for a suit for damages against the city of Chicago, whose health authorities were reported to have placed a ban on the shipping of oysters into Chicago.

Out Of Race For Governor.

R. Walton Moore, of Fairfax, member of Congress from the Old Dominion, announced his definite refusal to be a candidate for the nomination for governorship of Virginia.

"After having carefully considered the matter from every point of view," Representative Moore said, "I do not feel that I should turn away from my duties in Congress to engage in a hard and costly contest and, therefore, I have definitely and finally announced that I will not be a candidate for the nomination."

Card of Thanks

I desire to express my thanks and appreciation of the many kindnesses shown my family in our recent bereavement — the death of my husband.

Dr. D. A. Christian and family have moved into town and he occupies the office of the late Dr. Thurman and the home of Thos. A. Walton as his residence. We now have three of the very best physicians. Now let's start an Appomattox hospital with trained nurses. We must grow.

Mrs. Tyler Coleman

On last Monday night death entered the home of Mr. Tyler Coleman near Vera and claimed for its victim his wife, Mrs. Sallie Coleman. Mrs. Coleman had been in invalid from rheumatism for more than twenty years. Her sufferings for years had been intense, but she bore them all patiently and no one ever heard a murmur complain. We know now that since she has passed into the great beyond, her sufferings are over forever and she is happy in the eternal fellowship of the Master she served so well.

Mrs. Coleman was one of the most loyal and consistent members of New Hope Baptist church, an invalid tho she was, she was one of the most regular attendants of the church up until about two years ago, when her malady became such severe, that she was forced to stay close at home and live the life of a shut-in.

She was a very well known through out the county and had a host of friends, all of whom will miss her greatly, but they all realize the infinite wisdom of God in reaching down His tender hand of love and taking her to her home beyond the skies, where pain and sorrow and tears are no more.

Mrs. Coleman's remains were laid to rest in New Hope cemetery Wednesday morning. A great crowd of friends and relatives were present to pay their last tribute of respect to one so dearly beloved by them all.

She is survived by her husband and the following sons and daughters: W. F. Coleman of Richmond, R. H. and L. A. Coleman of this county; Meadames. T. J. Harvey of Appomattox, R. W. Abbitt of Vera, T. H. Robertson and J. J. Chenault of the county. To all of these we extend our heart felt sympathy. May the love of God overshadow them in the dark hours and may they ever remember that "The eternal God is their refuge and underneath are His everlasting arms". They all have the sweet hope of being reunited eternally in an unbroken circle at the feet of the ever-loving Savior, in the "House of many mansions".

We have some sickness in this neighborhood. Mrs. John McCue is sick. Miss Rosa L. Fore who has been teaching in Richmond is at home on the sick list. Mrs. Edgar Covington has been sick for the past week.

John Randolph Charlton and bride, nee Miss Hattie Fore, spent the week-end with the latter's parents, en-route from Florida to their future home in Dunbar, W. Va.

Little Miss Sarah Gordon Gray has been spending some time with her grandmother, Mrs. J. W. Davis, near here.

J. W. Davis leaves this week for Richmond, where he will spend sometime with friends.

"There are several good farms in this neighborhood well stocked with teams and tools without tenants or month-hands.

We could see smoke rising in several directions Monday perhaps some one was burning plantbeds, but was the ground dry enough? Better wait than burn wet was the old rule and it is a good one.

There is a large red hound going at large in this neighborhood without tag and a number of complaints are being made. No one wants to hurt a good looking hound, but if owner wants him he is here and now notified to keep him away from other people's henneries. Last season dogs from near Evergreen killed eight of Mrs. J. B. Wilson's turkeys and other dogs killed several for N. A. Davis and Miss Mag Hix lost one turkey from the nest and eighteen eggs that were to hatch in four or five days and one other hen came up minus half its feathers and one wing draging. Now if the county has to pay these damages the dog owners should be made responsible for such to the county. Dogs got so bad we had to quit raising sheep and now the turkey has to suffer, but I believe this time it will be the dog.

Last Sunday one more was added to the family of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Burrell, but at the time the writer is not able to furnish the name of the young lady.

Rev. Duling preached a fine sermon here Sunday.

New Chevrolet

Chevrolet dealers throughout the country delivered and took orders for approximately 40 per cent more cars during January than during either January 1924 or 1923—the first months in the year having the highest production and sales records in the history of the industry.

During the recent Chicago automobile show 1,107 Chevrolets were sold—a record which has never before been equalled by any car exhibited at this show during the same period of time.

In New York during the automobile show, where the new Chevrolet was shown for the first time, five times as many orders were taken as during any previous New York show.

"Such sales records made, not only at the automobile shows, but by dealers throughout the country, are indicative of the public acceptance of the new Chevrolet," points out R. H. Grant, general sales manager.

Moses Garage will show and feature this car.
